High Quality Teaching and Intervention

Access to broad and balanced curriculum for all is starting point.	Consistent support during testing to ensure access for all.
Acorn SEND Handbook. Detailed SEND information for teachers to access and use in class. Has strategies as well	Use of technology to reduce barriers to learning

Strengths and Areas for Development

3 things we do well for children and their families:

- Access to alternative provision for those in need.
- Well-being and mental health programs are in place.
- Using the parent support advisor to offer another layer

Our 3 key strengths in SEND:

- Improved communication between all stakeholder
- Links and communication with outside agencies
- ELSA support

Our 3 key areas for development for SEND:

- Ensure a culture of “every teacher a teacher of SEND and every leader a leader of SEND”
- Embedding the process of identification and documentation of SEND
- Ensure the process of assess, plan, do review is used consistently
